PRICE FIVE CENTS.

...ugh very little in comparison with [illegible] ... Still there is undeniably as a [illegible] thus far on account of money expended in freight charges by jobbers of these goods ... fully 20 to 25 per cent, and their business with the Pacific coast is practically obliterated under the law. The attitude of railways towards the law was almost universally condemned.

RAILROAD NOTES.

WHAT JAY GOULD IS DOING

NEW YORK, April 30.—There were some stories afloat in Wall street yesterday to the effect that George Gould is to be made president of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, that President Houston would give way to representatives of Hart, the party that Gould is [illegible] the Oppenheim party in the St Louis [illegible] ... to fight that the Seligman party [illegible] show the books and give them all the [illegible] wanted if they would pay the legal costs so far, and that this compromise was declined. Jay Gould said to-day that when the interstate commerce bill was passed his son [illegible] stopped building new roads until the bearing of the law were understood, but that [illegible] operations had been resumed and 500 miles of new road would be constructed this year.

THE MISSOURI PACIFIC IN COLORADO

DENVER, April 30.—Articles of incorporation of the Pueblo [illegible] State Line Railroad Company, which is a [illegible] reorganization of the [illegible] ... were filed with the secretary of state to-day. The line will run from Pueblo easterly to a point on the eastern line between the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and Kansas Pacific roads, where it will connect with the Missouri Pacific, which is now building west from ... at the rate of two miles a day.

DENVER & RIO GRANDE ELECTION

DENVER, April 30.—The directors of the Denver & Rio Grande road arrived here to-day in the hotel car "Calarece." They are here attending the annual meeting of the board of directors, which took place to-day, and at which the resignation of Jackson was accepted and D. H. [illegible] formally elected to succeed him.

ONLY TWENTY-NINE MILES OF STAGING

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—The California & Oregon railroad has been completed to Hornbrook, a station two miles north of Klamath river, and but a few miles from the Oregon line. There are now only twenty-nine miles of staging.

THE CANADIAN ROUTE.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—Quite a number of passengers left on the steamer for Port Moody to-day, to go over the Canadian Pacific to New York and European points.

SCHNAEBLES FREE.

[illegible] is Welcomed Home, and will be Pensioned.

PARIS, April 30.—Schnaebel, who was released from prison yesterday by order of Germany, and who at once departed from Metz, where he was incarcerated, arrived at midnight at Pagny-sur-Moselle, where he was [illegible]. His wife and son met him at the station, where were also assembled the whole populace of the town, headed by all the officers of the municipality. Schnaebel was cheered by the crowd, who cried out, "Vive la France!" "Vive la Schnaebel!" After a short stop Schnaebel proceeded to Paris. He declined to be interviewed by members of the press. He declared he had been well treated by the Germans.

Paris newspapers appear to be well pleased with the manner in which the affair was settled and pronounce it an honorable settlement. They praise the prudence and fairness displayed by Flourens, minister of foreign affairs, and his conduct of France's side of the case. A majority of the papers draw from the incident a lesson that in future France must redouble her vigilance in order to avoid surprises of the kind caused by the arrest of Schnaebels. According to the Republique Francaise measures should be taken to prevent the people, in their respective districts, from using the occasion of Schnaebels's liberation for making anti-German demonstrations. Schnaebels reached Paris this afternoon. He at once called on Premier Goblet and had an interview with him, in which he reaffirms the story of his arrest as originally told. It is again asserted that Schnaebels will be relieved of his post of commissary at Pagny-sur-Moselle and will be retired on a pension.

A DIAMOND CROSS FOR HIM.

PARIS, April 30.—La France is soliciting donations of one franc each toward the purchase of a diamond cross for M Schnaebel. Eleven members of the Gantsch family head the subscription list.

TURKEY.

IT COMES TO BLOODSHED.

LONDON, May 1.—Advices from Crete report a fight between a band of Turks and a number of Christians, which resulted in several deaths. The Turks kidnapped a Christian girl and were attacked by her friends.

REBELLIOUS GREEKS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 30.—Disturbances against the authority of the Porte on the Island of Crete have been renewed by the Greek inhabitants.

STATE DISPATCHES.

PASSENGERS VIA YAQUINA.

YAQUINA, April 30.—The steamer Yaquina [illegible] arrived from San Francisco at 3 P. M., with a cargo of freight for the Willamette valley and the following passengers: E Freepen, M. L. [illegible]bott, J Wonderker, Adam Berg, Oscar Barg, E. Chandler, J Partridge and wife, William [illegible]Lrane and wife, J. C. Minor, R. Carncliff, J. [illegible]on, A. L. Strickland, John Lutjen.

WRECKED ON THE ATLANTIC

BLOCK ISLAND, April 30.—The ship Mary [illegible]bing, from New York to Hong Kong, with [illegible]00 cases of oil and 250 tons of ballast, came ashore on the west side of Block island this morning. Heavy seas are running and the vessel is pounding and leaking.

On board were the captain, two mates, the carpenters, steward, cook, eighteen seamen and the captain's wife and daughter. The captain and family were taken off by the lifeboat. It is feared the vessel will prove a total loss. She was valued at $150,000.

A DENVER SUICIDE.

DENVER, April 30.—Daniel M. Egbert suicided at the Colorado house last night by taking poison. He left a note saying the cause was financial distress. He has been identified as an ex-engineer of the United States navy, and has relatives living near Paterson, N. J.

QUEEN KAPIOLANI'S TOUR.

Children

Parents are very often worried about a child that shows signs of drooping and loss of appetite and no desire to join in the sports of their playmates. It is hardly serious enough to require a physician, but it is plain that the child needs something. It is not prudent to force into the young and undeveloped systems strong and nauseous drugs, but a medicine that will aid, invigorate, enliven and thoroughly cleanse the system by gentle means is what is desired. Simmons Liver Regulator is a medicine of this kind. The child will not rebel against taking it, because it is not unpleasant to the taste. It does not compel them to remain in doors, and it does not weaken or injure the system. It can safely be administered to the youngest infant.

"I have used Simmons Liver Regulator in my family for eight or ten years and found it the best family medicine I ever used for anything that may happen.—OVID G. SPARKS, Ex-Mayor of Macon, Ga.

CATARRH

It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

HOW THE SALVATIONISTS BEHAVE

The Southern Pacific to Invade Eastern Oregon—Timid Seattle People who Feared a Riot—Dixey is Not Coming

BAKERSFIELD, May 1.—Sheriff Harris of Napa, accompanied by A. J. Grigsby, brother of Mrs Lyons, arrived this morning, to attend the inquest upon the body of the man killed at Paso creek on Friday and who was supposed to be the murderer of Mrs. Lyons at Napa February 2. Soon after the inquest commenced Grigsby and the sheriff testified that although the resemblance to Olsen was strong, the deceased was not that individual. As it transpired that there was a letter in Glenville [illegible] valley postoffice directed to M. H. Siebert, which name the man went under, it was sent for in the hope that it may throw some light on the deceased. The inquest was therefore adjourned until to-morrow.

THE [illegible] CARRIED ON SO

[illegible] is Through with the Salvation Army and Wants to Come Home

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—It was a girl of plump form, rosy cheeks, sparkling black eyes and rather [illegible] features that stood up in the dock of the Oakland police court yesterday and gave her name as [illegible] when a charge of vagrancy was read to her. What is your plea? asked the clerk. [illegible] the [illegible] child [illegible] "Not guilty." [illegible] Thomas then took a hand. "If you please," he said, "I would like to say a word in regard to this case. I found this young girl singing upon the streets, followed by a gang of young hoodlums and I took charge of her. From her story it seems that she was brought down from her home in Portland, Oregon, by the Salvation Army and now they have turned her adrift upon the streets among strangers and without a cent of money. If the facts are as she states them the Salvationists are to blame in this matter." The court continued the case until the girl's relatives could be communicated with.

To a reporter who had a conversation with her in the captain's office after the proceedings in court she said: "I will be 16 years old in July next. Both my parents died when I was 4 years old, and for four years after that my grandmother took care of me, and after that I went to live with Mr Steen at Salem, who took care of me for over two years. Then I was big enough to work, and I took care of children and other light work. About six or seven months ago I got connected with the Salvation Army and attended their meetings. The members came and talked to me and I got converted and went into the barracks. About four months ago I was brought down to this city by Cadet [illegible], who is now in Napa, and who placed me in barracks here. They were then in charge of Major Britton. I was then sent over to San Francisco to the captain of the army over there on Market street, and helped to take care of the meetings. I stayed there for about one month and then came over here. They tried to make me a cadet but I would not, so they sent me to the Rescue house in East Oakland, somewhere on Thirty-second street, kept by a Mrs Captain Wells. I stayed there a short time, but because I would not become a cadet they turned me out on the street without any money and said they did not care what became of me."

"Why don't you want to be a cadet?"

"Because I should have to take an oath to stay with them always and I did not like the way they carried on. They drink beer and take women into saloons down under ground and don't act respectable. They don't have beer in the barracks here. When they want it they go out and get it, but they don't go out with their uniforms on. What I said just now referred more to San Francisco than here. I saw lots of such things going on over there. They kiss and hug each other lots of times, but that is only in fun."

"Did they ever kiss you?"

"Yes, they often kissed me and squeezed me in their arms."

"Did they ever take any other liberties with you?"

"No, nothing of any consequence. I never saw such fighting and quarreling as I have seen in the barracks here. They don't act so bad in Portland. They fight here just like cats and dogs."

"Have you any relatives or friends living in Portland?"

"Yes sir, my guardian lives there and I have two uncles also living there."

"What is your guardian's name?"

"His name is William Ross and he lives at West Portland."

"Do they know where you are?"

"No, I don't think they do. I know they have been hunting for me ever since I left Portland. I want to go back so much. I have a younger sister there and she has had sense enough to stay at home."

"What induced you to leave with the Salvation Army?"

"I don't know exactly. I thought my uncles were too strict with me because they would never let me go out of an evening unless my cousins were with me. I know better now and don't want to go out any more. All I want now is to get back to my home."

"Of course you are not married," queried the reporter.

"Yes I am. I was married a year ago last February."

"Did you run away from your husband when you came down here?"

"He thrashed me one night because I went to a Free Methodist meeting. He doesn't care for religion of any sort, and he told me I should not go. I didn't propose to be talked to like that and I'd have gone if I'd died in my tracks going there. When I got home he beat me and I went away from him, but I'm ready to go back to him now."

The girl did not appear at all disconcerted by her surroundings and seemed to prefer a prison cell to the Salvation barracks.

A NEW OREGON RAILROAD

The Southern Pacific Company to Enter Eastern Oregon via Klamath River

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—"Yes, the Southern Pacific is a live road. It is a forerunner; it does for railroading what the pioneers once did for the plains and forests of the west. It marks out trails and blazes roads, hoping something from the future development of the country."

These words spoken last week by an old Californian will apply to what seems to be the policy of the Southern Pacific in soon extending branch lines into and through Eastern Oregon.

In conversation with Charles F. Crocker, vice-president of this road, your correspondent has sought to learn just what the company propose or expect to do in this long neglected region, and if a railroad should be built there, in what point would be its terminus. Col. Crocker is nearly as guarded in his utterances on this subject as was Senator Stanford a few weeks ago when the writer put to him these same questions. More can be inferred from their actions and evasive answers than can be learned from the words they speak. They are business men. The construction of a railroad is carried on in accordance with business principles. It is not usual for a man, in whatsoever business he may be engaged, to inform a rival of the particular lines or methods in which he intends to work. If he did this his rival would be more than human if he did not set himself about to take advantage of the knowledge gained.

That the Southern Pacific has thoughts of invading Eastern Oregon has been known for months, but how far these thoughts go or how often they arise in the minds of officials of this road is unknown. In the conversation, however, Col. Crocker has made some interesting statements and brought out at least one new point of interest. He states that from where the California & Oregon railroad meets the Klamath river there is a natural pass up that river for a railroad into Eastern Oregon—in fact about the only inexpensive pass there is to this region from Western Oregon and Northern California south of the Columbia river. Surveying parties he says are now in the field or are making preparations therefor with a view of securing data looking to the building of the road. There are many things to be considered, as for example the lines along which it would be feasible to locate a road, the cost of such a road and possibly diverging lines, and the agricultural, mining or lumber value of country—in short, a general examination and study of the entire region as to whether soil, climate, condition, water supply, etc., are such as to give it a future and promise a return of monetary investments.

Mr. Crocker could not state through what portions of Eastern Oregon the road will run, or if he could he preferred not to do so. Answering questions, however, he stated that the ultimate destination of the road would be at some point on the line of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's road. He repeated the words "ultimate" as if to give the impression that the present plans do not contemplate the building of a road so far north. It can easily be seen how such a road or roads could be run as to effect a commercial alienation between Western and at least Southeastern Oregon, and of parts thereof effect a virtual divorcement. A road extended up the Klamath river, thence northward in a direction nearly parallel with the Cascade range of mountains, having a branch line or lines extending to Goose lake, and linking together the principal lakes of that remarkable lake system in Southeastern Oregon, might under the ownership of a company so aggressive as the Southern Pacific do much toward commercially dismembering the state.

ROAD FROM SOUTHERN TO EASTERN OREGON

YREKA, May 1.—The grade through the mountains from Horn Brook to Ashland will average 1 6 feet to the mile. There is no other grade so heavy as this in any part of California. The Graham surveying party, who have been engaged throughout the winter in a preliminary survey of the line from Siskiyou tunnel to Ashland, have completed their work and the final location surveyors will commence stake-driving in a few days. To [illegible] survey will it is said commence very shortly on a preliminary survey for a line to run east from Edgewood into Eastern Oregon.

PROGRESS OF THE O. & C.

YREKA, May 1.—The locating survey of the branch road is completed to Julian's, nine and one-half miles in an almost straight line. There will be a forward movement to-morrow from Montague to the new terminus at Healy, which will make Montague a deserted place.

CALIFORNIA.

THE EFFECT UPON THE STAGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—So far as the Pacific coast is concerned the interstate commerce law is beginning to show its workings in regard to the amusement market. Dixey's Adonis party declined the trip hither on account of the increased expense and this example will be followed by other large combinations. The operation of the law will affect this part of the country more than any other section of the United States, whether beneficially or otherwise remains to be seen. Certainly none but first-class and recognized organizations will find it profitable to play across the continent in future, and it looks from the present position of affairs as if one of the results of a rigid enforcement of the law will be a return to the old stock system and consequently to an improvement of the [illegible].

THE BOYCOTT ON CHINESE PORK

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—The Butchers' Protective Union, through its president George [illegible], has sent a communication to the board of supervisors asking permission to send a wagon containing a transparency through the streets announcing the names of butchers who sell Chinese pork. The communication states that the union was organized a year ago for the purpose of exploding and breaking down the Chinese monopoly of pork. Its object is sanitary as well as patriotic. The pork is declared to be filthy and reeking with leprosy disease and opium smoke.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—There was a large attendance at Central park yesterday afternoon, the first cricket match of the season played between the St George and Merion clubs being the attraction. SEATTLE SCARED.

Unnecessary Fear of a Repetition of Last Year's Riots.

SEATTLE, May 1.—The precautions taken by Gov. Semple to maintain order in Seattle last evening have prevented an outbreak, if indeed there was really danger of trouble. Company B, First regiment, remained at their armory all night, but were dismissed this morning. Companies D, L and F were also held in readiness for action, but no trouble of any kind occurred. There has been little excitement on the streets to-day and citizens generally are inclined to believe that there was little or no cause for the scare of last night. Employment is plenty here and there is a general demand for labor. No one is out of work and none except a few professional agitators are disposed to precipitate trouble. The officials, including Gov. Semple and Sheriff Cochrane, are determined to preserve order, and the general feeling is that there is not the slightest probability of an outbreak.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

WILL NOT ACCEPT UNLESS HE HAS A CHANCE.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Col. Lamont, who was at the Hoffman house yesterday, said that President Cleveland had positively not intimated a desire for renomination, and he would certainly do nothing whatever of the kind until he was asked in an authoritative way. "When the proper time comes," added the colonel, "and the democratic party express a unanimous desire to have Cleveland accept a second nomination, then and not until then would the public or even a single person know his wishes."

THE LAST REPUBLICAN

RAILROAD NOTES.

DISCOURAGE CALIFORNIA EXCURSIONS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—The action of Eastern railway officials in agreeing not to encourage the running of west bound California excursions is looked upon by local railroad men with much favor. They say there is nothing in the excursion business for the railroad companies, as a large commission has always been paid to agents working up excursion parties on each ticket sold. They say that the withdrawal of the excursions will not result in any decrease of revenue nor in any material reduction in the volume of west bound travel.

PRESIDENT KEEP WILL RESIGN

CHICAGO, May 1.—Telegraphic news from New York last night to the effect that President Keep of the Chicago & Northwestern railway was about to resign in the interest of a more aggressive policy, and that Martin Hughitt, second vice-president and general manager, would succeed him, was called to Keep's attention to-day. "So far as I am concerned," said Keep, "the report is true. I have been president fourteen years and resign because I want more rest and less confinement."

A BANK TELLER STEALS $100,000

More Irishmen for America—Schnaebels Talks Angrily—The Anti-Poverty Society—The Prize Ring

[Copyrighted 1887 by the New York Associated Press.]

BERLIN, May 1.—The budget committee of the reichstag to-day adopted in the form proposed by the government the estimates for the construction of barracks and hospitals [illegible] vote for strategic railways, the vote for [illegible] the efficiency of the army, and the loan bill. When the reichstag resumes on Thursday the committee will present a report approving the whole budget proposals of the government, except the artillery grant. Some discussion occurred over 600,000 marks devoted to rendering the army better prepared to fight, and suggestions were made to reduce the vote of 6,000,000 marks for strategic railways, but the ideas of economy were overruled by the conviction that a collision with France cannot long be postponed, for the release of Schnaebels only modifies the position so far as justifying Prince Bismarck's diplomatic position in demanding the cessation of French official excitation to revolt in Alsace Lorraine and the stoppage of an organized system of espionage throughout Germany. Germany has good claim to demand that France shall cease from official intriguing in German provinces.

It is believed that Prince Bismarck is about to make urgent representations that, having proved his good will in the Schnaebels case, France must now stop offenses against international law by ordering her officials to refrain from fomenting treason in Alsace Lorraine. If the response of the French government to these representations is not satisfactory the Schnaebels incident, it is thought, will become the starting point of the greatest events of the century.

The Cologne Gazette publishes a list of French agents who have been arrested and convicted in German territory, and defies the French government to adduce a single case where German government agents have been convicted of espionage in France. Hitherto, the paper adds, French government agents who were arrested have been liberated after a short detention. The cases of the Danish Capt. Sarauw, the poet Kraszewski and the Belgian Bannsent do not apply to the French. A recent instance of the leniency of the German government is the case of Lettelrier, who was caught at Carlsruhe having in his possession plans of the fortress and sketches, and who was liberated after his guilt had been fully established. This course on the part of the government has been the rule toward other Frenchmen, but further observance of the rule the Gazette declares is impossible.

The Kreuz Zeitung represents that the increased irritation among all classes in Germany must impel the government to ask France to offer trustworthy guarantees that Germany shall in future be protected against officially permitted espionage.

The edict of the war party is that if Prince Bismarck means to raise a final question now, the delaying of the conflict has enabled the French war department during the past four months to reform and eminently strengthen their lines of defenses on the frontier. On the other hand, four months ago the popular feeling was against war, while now the balance of opinion throughout Germany will be with Bismarck if war is declared necessary.

Gen. Walderzo, with his staff, inspected during the week the frontier line northward from Metz. He visited Moyeuvre and Diedenhofen, making his headquarters at the latter place. There has been a continual movement of government troops in the frontier provinces, but this is reported to be owing chiefly to new arrangements under the army bill.

WANT MORE PROTECTION

Resolutions signed by Avon M[illegible] and 1? members of the landtag asks the government to introduce in the reichstag a bill to augment the protective duties on agricultural products. The government has enough on hand for the current session without raising a question which might imperil its majority. When the reichstag resumes the first bill to be introduced will be the sugar taxation reform measure, which Dr. Jacobi, minister imperial of the treasury, promised to have ready before the spirit consumers bill.

SUNDAY LABOR.

The Sunday labor commission after long delay has completed its report, which is very voluminous, comprising evidence given by all classes of employes and workmen. The report, which will be issued soon, will be the subject of discussion in the reichstag, but it is impossible that it will be made the basis of legislation this session.

FULL BUTTER IN GERMANY

The reichstag committee on the bill relating to artificial butter has adopted a motion that the artificial article must be called not butter but margarine, and must not be colored to imitate genuine butter. The fine for violation of the law, which was originally 150 marks, has been raised to 1000 marks. The new law is to go into operation in October.

The Prussian estimate of supplementary expenditures presented to the landtag asks for 11,296,820 marks for the increased contribution of Prussia to the empire, and 1,5[illegible]4,[illegible]0 marks for the purchase of private railways.

SCHNAEBELS IS ANGRY

PARIS, May 1.—In an interview Schnaebels insisted that he threw off the German policeman and ran to French territory before he was arrested. He said that German detectives threatened to shoot him if he resisted. Schnaebels confirmed Gautsch's statement that he (Gautsch) was also arrested. Schnaebels was kept in absolute ignorance of everything while in prison. He was liberated at 9 P. M. during an exceptionally heavy thunder storm, which woke him from sleep. He refused to say anything about the German charges against him, but said that the arrest was illegal. Gautsch accompanied Schnaebels on the train as far as Noveant, where, after an excited conversation, Gautsch was overheard to say: "Upon my oath you wrong me. I am innocent." To this Schnaebels shrugged his shoulders, and uttered an expression of rage and contempt, and burst into a loud laugh and exclaimed, as Gautsch stepped off: "He takes me for an idiot."

NO CROSS FOR SCHNAEBELS

PARIS, May 1.—M. Schnaebels has returned to his home. The Temps and many other journals deprecate the idea of the public subscribing to present him with a diamond cross.

QUEENSTOWN, May 1.—Wm. O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, and Mr. Kilbride, one of the tenants evicted from Lansdowne's estate, sailed for New York to-day. He felt that when the Irish liberty loving Canadians heard the true account of Lord Lansdowne's cruelty to his tenants they would not tolerate their being governed by such a man.

THE PRICE OF COPPER.

CHICAGO, May 1.—A local financial journal said yesterday: The report that the Calumet & Hecla Company, of Michigan, have made contracts for the delivery of about 8,000,000 pounds of copper at ten cents a pound between June and December has created considerable excitement in copper circles. Not only is this price below current rates, but the contracts virtually cover the demand for the most active months of the year. Until within a few years the Calumet & Hecla people have always controlled the price of copper in this country, their mine being very rich and easily worked. It has paid between $25,000,000 and $27,000,000 in dividends, and is owned and dealt in Boston.

PARCHED TEXAS

GALVESTON, May 1.—The News, commenting upon the drouth, says: The drouth of last year and that of the present season are unparalleled. In extreme Northwestern Texas and the extreme southwest there have been rains of late that will prove of incalculable benefit to the cattle districts, but the agricultural districts [illegible] and [illegible] except perhaps [illegible] limited area in Northern Texas, are suffering seriously for want of rain. In all that belt of country between San Antonio and Austin, from Austin to Waco, from Waco to Bremond and down the Central railroad to Houston, and in a circumference described by this geographical circle, the country stands badly in need of moisture. Oats and small grain within the district specified are almost a total failure, while corn that [illegible] is in vigorous condition is seriously wilted and in bad condition at the roots. This is the worst feature of the agricultural situation in Central and Middle and Southern Texas. There is still time ahead to make a cotton crop, although [illegible] the corn crop is now being too late. [illegible] corn within [illegible] eight days the corn crop in Texas will be very much of a failure. So serious is this outlook that wholesale houses are withdrawing their men from the road pending a solution of the rainfall problem.

HEIR TO MEET HIS UNCLE

DETROIT, May 1.—Wm. Wheeler, a dime museum doorkeeper and lecturer, came here from Chicago several months ago. A few weeks ago he received word that he had fallen heir to an undivided interest in a California uncle's $300,000 fortune. Immediately he resigned and proceeded to celebrate, soon disposing of all his spare cash. For the sake of [illegible] to take him to the Golden Gate he secured a position as night clerk at the [illegible] house. Last night he left without giving due notice, taking with him a little more than $100 belonging to the hotel. Nothing has since been heard from him.

SPORTING NOTES.

THE SPIDER BEAT CLARK [illegible]

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., May [illegible].—A fight between Ike Weir of Boston, better known as the Belfast Spider, and Willie Clark of Philadelphia, took place last night up Long Island sound. The fight was to a finish, Marquis of Queensberry rules, with undressed kids, for $1000. It was in twenty rounds and lasted one hour and twenty-three minutes. The Spider knocked Clark down twice in the first round, drawing first blood from his nose. Weir also made one clean knockdown in the seventh round, after which Clark fought entirely on his gameness, taking terrific punishment. Clark was a badly beaten man. His face was badly cut up, while The Spider was scarcely marked. At the end of the twentieth round Clark's seconds threw up the sponge as their man was unable to see, one eye being entirely closed and the other nearly so, and was too weak to come to time. The opinion of sporting men present was that The Spider could outfight any man of his weight in the world.

BURKE AND DEMPSEY TO FIGHT

CHICAGO, May 1.—It was stated here last night that it is proposed to have Burke and Dempsey meet again for the purpose of settling once for all the question as to which is entitled to the boasted claim of superiority. With this end in view Burke and Dempsey have been in correspondence for the past two weeks, with such success that articles have only to be signed to clinch a tacit agreement to fight ten or fifteen rounds with small gloves for a big stake and 65 and 35 per cent of the gate receipts. It is probable that the contest will come off either in St. Paul or Minneapolis, and the date will not be further away than ten weeks.

It was a case of suicide on the part of Oswald, and all signs indicate that he murdered his daughter before cutting his own throat. The child had evidently been smothered to death, as a piece of cloth was found stuffed in her mouth. It is supposed that constant brooding over his domestic and financial troubles had turned his brain. Oswald was a blacksmith [illegible] years of age.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, MONDAY, MAY 2, 1887.

THE PROHIBITION MANIFESTO.

The address of the Probibitory Amendment League to the voters of Oregon is a curious illustration of the incapacity or the unwillingness of those who are bound to an idea to learn anything or forget anything. Whatever is true in it is not new and is irrelevant, and whatever is new is for the most part untrue. The manifesto assumes an absurdity when it refuses to believe that voters for or against the amendment will be influenced by any consideration other than the greatest benefit to the community at large. Every sane, candid, intelligent man knows that at least 25 per cent. of laws passed by legislatures, at least 25 per cent. of men elected to places of public trust and responsibility, are voted for because of purely personal and selfish reasons, rather than considerations of public weal. To illustrate: The statute books of nine-tenths of the states are disfigured by obsolete laws that have not the slightest support of public opinion and are universally violated by high and low. The Sunday laws which make it illegal to take your wife to ride on Sunday or to hire a boat for a row on the river are universally ignored by common consent, and such laws only furnish an opportunity for private vengeance upon a neighbor. A rascal who, hating the proprietor of a livery stable, hired a horse and carriage of him and deliberately drove the horse to death and wrecked the carriage, would not be legally liable for damages because the contract was illegal. And yet while every sound consideration of public justice demands the repeal of these laws they are not repealed. Why? Because of the chance they give for the old confusion of the function of a law and the function of a sermon. Nine-tenths of the men who violate the Sunday laws would probably refuse to vote for repeal for the selfish reason that they suffered no personal discomfort by their presence on the statute book, since they were sure not to be enforced, and to vote for their repeal would give a clump of pious cranks an opportunity to howl and call a man a "Sabbath breaker" and "anti-Christ" because he voted to wipe off the books a law that public opinion had long ago repealed.

It is just so with the passage of laws where it is possible to confuse the issue of a broad general moral end in view with a narrow, specific legal means to that end. A man will vote for prohibition, not because he thinks it a crime to sell liquor or to drink liquor, not because he believes that prohibition will abate intemperance, but simply because if the law passes its certainty of non-enforcement subjects him as a drinker to no personal vexation, and by voting for it he avoids the possible odium of being stigmatized by clamorous cranks as a "rummy." In other words even as the average man will sign a petition to rob anybody but himself, to tax anybody when he does not have to pay a share of the tax, to pardon anybody who has not assaulted or robbed him or any of his family, so the average man will vote for any law that does not promise to pump his pocket, or to cause him any personal [illegible], if the law happens to be one that affords an opportunity to raise a cloud of moral [illegible] over the question of a practicable legal means to a moral end.

This indifference to broad considerations of principle, to questions of near or remote public weal, this moral cowardice that dreads to be called "Sabbath breaker" when it votes for the repeal of a dead Sunday law; that shrinks from being recklessly denounced as a "rummy," because it declines in the interest of public welfare to vote for an evil and impracticable means to a worthy end, explains the ease with which laws with a moral bugaboo in their bowels get on the statute book, and explains why they are difficult to repeal when they are not only dying but dead. A law that involves nothing but a pure question of commercial methods can be easily altered and amended when the shoe pinches the public foot, but a bad law that does not happen clearly to puncture the individual pocket, or pinch the toe of the majority, is always difficult to get rid of, if it is possible to confuse the question of moral purpose with the question of legal remedy for admitted evil. When laws that are immoral, or ineffective to a moral end, are dead so long that they fairly stink, it takes a good deal of public moral courage to carry out the corpse and bury it.

All that the prohibition manifesto says about the evils of intemperance is irrelevant, because there is no chance for argument on that point. The evil of intemperance is to-day no more a subject of controversy than the existence of cholera and yellow fever, the change of seasons, or the periodicity of comets. Aristophanes in Greek comedy and Solomon in the Hebrew bible centuries before Christ set forth the evil of intemperance as clearly as Neal Dow does today. But with a wisdom that ought to rebuke Neal Dow, they never suggested prohibition as a remedy. The stupid philosophy of prohibition lies not in the end but in the means. Poverty is a great evil, but noisome poverty exists where the drink habit is almost unknown. How stupid it would be to pass a law prohibiting poverty, because it is an evil and a dreadful charge upon decent society! And yet it is philosophically and logically no more stupid than an attempt to make men sober and chaste by statute rather than by sermon and the sobering influence of self-interest and the bitter experience of inebriety. The prohibition manifesto is instinct with absurdity when it argues that because public opinion can be invoked successfully to prohibit what by the common consent of civilization is considered crime, it can therefore be successfully invoked to prohibit a traffic that by the common consent of civilization is not considered as a crime. The highest type of European civilization refuses to consider the liquor traffic a crime; and in America the oldest, ablest, most intelligent and upright states refuse thus to stigmatize it. Old states that have tried prohibition have dropped it, like Massachusetts, Connecticut and Michigan; and other old states are full of the rumblings of discontent and disgust with its debility, like New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont, and even the comparatively crude experiments of Kansas and Iowa begin to excite resistance on the part of temperance men, who are philosophers rather than fanatics.

A POLITICAL PROBLEM.

In the democratic papers of New York, notably in the World and Sun, there are many speculations as to the future of politics in the state of New York, based on the unknown quantity commonly called the labor vote. These speculations show much anxiety as to the effect of the labor vote upon the fortunes of the democratic party—unless methods can be devised to arrest the tendency of the force it represents to act as a separate political organization.

The Sun publishes a letter, to which it gives great prominence, on party divisions and sectional aspects of politics in the state of New York, and which sets forth with remarkable clearness and cogency the meaning to the democratic party of the failure to control as heretofore the votes of the large numbers connected with the labor organizations which are showing so plain a purpose to form and maintain a distinct party organization. The analysis shows that of the sixty counties in the state of New York forty-eight are almost always republican and twelve are democratic. The republican counties had in 1880 a population of 2,656,032, and the democratic counties a population of 2,426,839. The republican counties gave Hayes 49,797 plurality, Garfield 73,020 plurality, and Blaine 63,010 plurality; they gave the republican candidate for governor, in 1885, 50,624 plurality, and the republican candidate for supreme judge in 1886, 57,947 plurality. The steadiness of this voting and the magnitude of the majorities cause the writer to declare this division of the state of New York to be the most solid and steadfast republican section in the United States.

When the conditions are all favorable for the largest possible vote for the democratic party, its aggregate majorities in the other twelve counties often overbear these heavy republican majorities, but if the conditions are not all favorable the contest is entirely hopeless on the democratic side. It takes all the democratic majorities that can possibly be produced in the great cities of New York and Brooklyn to assure success to that party. Loss of a few thousand votes in the metropolitan districts will cause democratic defeat, and even hitherto the steadiness of democratic majorities in the two great cities has not been equal to the steadiness of the republican majorities in the rural districts. Now arises the new menace in the shape of a movement that promises to cut off many thousands of votes from the democratic party in the metropolis and large numbers in other cities. Can this vote be held to the party in the future? This is now the democratic problem. And, in particular, can it be held to Cleveland in 1888? When it is remembered that he lost a portion of it in 1884 and came within a few hundred votes of defeat, and that there is little likelihood that he could get the support of as many voters of this class next time as he got last, the problem may well be one of interest and anxiety to those who wish for democratic success.

In any event, as the Sun's writer puts it, the democratic candidate, whoever he may be, "if he succeeds, must have the votes of all these labor democrats of New York city." But can any candidate get them and at the same time hold the entire strength of the other elements of the party and the mugwumps combined? Many sagacious political observers gravely doubt it.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

It is one hundred years this month of May since the convention that framed the constitution of the United States assembled at Philadelphia. These one hundred years have been most eventful ones in the progress of science, government and civilization. There is not another century of the world's history so crowded with great events, and on which the stamp of progress has been so indelibly marked. It is a century which has filled the nations of the earth with the marvels and glory of human progress, and has altogether revolutionized the affairs of the world. And yet this government of ours is existing under the same constitution which was framed a hundred years ago—framed at a time when the conditions which exist to-day were not even as much as dreamed of, and framed by men who had no experimental knowledge of republican government.

It would be hazardous, no doubt, to attempt to make a new constitution; and yet there are dangers that beset our present system against which provision ought to be made. It is apparent that a more satisfactory method for electing a president must be adopted, or this government will yet melt away before the heat of partisan rancor. If we want to avert the danger of some future Cæsar or Napoleon erecting an empire on the ruins of the republic, we must remove the opportunities for doing so. If we want to secure the nation against the danger of an established aristocracy, founded on wealth and corporate power, we must invent a more democratic method of electing United States senators. These and other things ought to be provided for by amendments of the constitution. If the people would awake to the necessity of them, men would soon appear to execute their will.

Rich men of the United States are falling into the European custom of leaving their property in bulk to their eldest sons. In the past five years there have been many notable instances of this policy, the latest being the will of the late Alexander Mitchell of Wisconsin. The vast estate goes to young John L. Mitchell, to which simple "provision" is made for the various other heirs. A man who has spent his life in making money regards his fortune as his monument and wishes naturally that it and through it his name may be perpetuated. Nine men in ten so situated would, if they could, establish over their own particular millions the rule of entail. Fortunately this is not possible, or we should soon have an aristocracy of hereditary wealth which is infinitely more to be dreaded than an aristocracy of hereditary rank. But there is no danger in America without a change of laws. Our system might be warranted in time to grind up the most monumental fortune.

The telegraph brings the miserable story of a Portland girl less than 16 years of age, who was seduced into joining that organization of hoodlums known as the Salvation Army, subjected to its vile associations and vagabond life in this city and San Francisco and finally turned adrift upon the streets of Oakland, a penniless vagrant. Her story exposes what ought not to be news to anybody; namely, that the "Salvationists" are a lewd set, unworthy of respect or support, who make their religious profession a cover for the grossest immorality. Whoever gives money to this band of beggars and harlots gives to the support of idleness, hypocrisy and vice.

It is common remark of shallow persons that when you examine the political principles of a departed public man, when you point out the errors of his political teachings, when you show that his political philosophy was bad in itself and in its results, and draw lessons from it of admonition and warning, you are accused of "libelling the dead." Then history must not be written, for every true history must do this very thing. Only the partisans of public men whose careers are indefensible will put in so shallow a plea. If the plea were a good one, it would oblige us to blot out nearly all history that is really useful to mankind.

The methods often practiced by deputy sheriffs in the collection of road and poll taxes from Chinamen are not only brutal but criminal. The sheriffs have no right to lay hold of goods without warrant, to detain men (Chinese or white) who are about to start on a journey or to imprison them. These things are done commonly and they are crimes punishable under the law. Chinamen are made the victims of these methods only because they are helpless and ignorant of their rights and can be bullied and imposed upon. It is the duty of Sheriff Jordan to break up this criminal, cowardly and contemptible practice.

Canada, with a population of about 5,000,000, has a debt of $280,000,000, with assets claimed to amount to $120,000,000, but returning no interest. With twelve times the population of Canada, the United States carries not much more than six times its debt. The average rate of interest on the Canadian debt is 5¼ per cent. on bonds that were disposed of at a discount of 5 per cent. to 12 per cent. This makes the interest burden equivalent to about 5½ per cent., or nearly double that [illegible] paid by the United States.

With the [illegible] of the state appropriation, now reduced to about one thousand dollars, the immigration commissioners will keep the office in this city open till September 1. If at that time a fund to continue the work has not been raised by subscription, the office must be closed.

A CLERICAL ERROR.

PORTLAND, May 1.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In our real estate report published to-day there is a clerical error. We handed the following tabular statement to our clerk, complete save that there was to be added the recorded transactions of yesterday, instead of which he added those of the week:

		Conveyances.	Amount.
April,	1883	230	$553,067
"	1884	142	341,630
"	1885	128	148,565
"	1886	126	118,385
"	1887	279	641,795

The last line should have read, "April, 1887; conveyances 225, amount $510,352." Also the words "northwestern part of Couch" should have read "northeastern."

CURE OF KIDNEY DISEASE.

NORTHEAST, Erie Co., Pa., Nov. 25, 1885.

I first used ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS for a severe cold in my chest, some three years ago, and the relief was so prompt and decided that I concluded to further test them for a kidney trouble which I had had for many years; during this time my back ached almost constantly. I had to pass water very frequently, always feeling the bladder did not expel all its contents. I had always to get up in the night several times for this purpose, and there was always a reddish sediment that sank to the bottom. I had great pain under the shoulder blades; upon rising in the morning I was always tired and unrefreshed; my bowels during this time were first very loose, then constipated. I bought a dozen of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, put two low down on my back, two higher up, and one over my bladder and lower part of the stomach. In four weeks I felt better than in years before. The pain in my back completely passed away, and the other troubles were relieved.

FRANK STRETINGER.

PRESIDENTIAL GOSSIP.

Some Speculation about the Campaign of 1888.

What Disgruntlement has to Say Against Cleveland, and what Hope Predicts for Blaine—Probability of the Old Tickets.

The question which most agitates the public mind at the federal capital, and increases in volume from day to day, says a Washington special to the Chicago Herald, is whether President Cleveland really desires and is seeking renomination. Go where you will, at all the rendezvous of politicians and gossips, whether at hotels, clubs, private residences or elsewhere this is the moot question, and overshadows all other subjects of public discussion. Very naturally the pros and cons of republican candidates are likewise debated, but so far as President Cleveland is concerned there is wide contrariety of opinion as to whether he and his immediate advisers are prepared at this juncture to unreservedly define their position or declare themselves respecting renomination.

Occasionally some well-known and recognized friend is quoted as stating positively that the president neither desires nor would accept renomination, being well satisfied, after having re-established the democratic party in power, to turn it over to the care and custody of its leaders and well-wishers. As a foil to this declaration various anti administration democratic journals broadly intimate that this is a case of "sour grapes," and that the administration, recognizing the handwriting on the wall, is forced to forestall by declining to accept that which is beyond its reach.

That a very powerful element within the democratic party, journalistic as well as otherwise, is actively engaged in the effort to prevent President Cleveland's re-nomination is apparent, especially at Washington, where the rebellious class gather for counsel, and from which planetary focus lines of political light radiate to all sections of the country. The national capital may be likened, in this purview, to a bureau of information or intelligence office, which busies itself in obtaining facts, data and on dits, and makes chronicle of passing events to answer any and all purposes. Those who are the recognized leaders in this revolt attract the presence and advice of every Adullamite, whether democrat or republican, and the chaff is carefully sifted from the grain before submitting it to the reduction process.

One of the fancies of the democratic malcontents which has taken firm hold is that the republicans are shrewdly conspiring to aid the re-nomination of President Cleveland, to the end that he may be handsomely thrashed in the presidential contest by James G. Blaine, thereby recouping for the defeat of 1884. These gentlemen have gotten the idea into their heads that the strategy of the republicans is not only to win at the canvass of 1888, but in the pronounced defeat of President Cleveland, pre-supposing his re-nomination, to make their victory so sweeping as to mangle the democratic party beyond recognition, and show to the world that it had been repudiated utterly by the people after four years' trial.

When these gentlemen are asked to suggest the name of some other democratic candidate whose nomination and election are within the range of probabilities, they shrug their shoulders and deprecatingly reply that President Cleveland has made it almost impossible, through his weak and shiftless policy, to place another candidate in the field with reasonable hope of democratic success. They derive some solace from the reflection that no one can safely predict even the near future, and that there may yet be balm in Gilead, provided they can beat off Mr. Cleveland and secure a new birth of Democracy by placing an acceptable candidate in the field. He who runs may read that their eyes are turned longingly and lovingly toward Governor Hill, of New York.

Again, whenever these gentlemen are assured that the republicans are by no means intriguing to further the renomination of President Cleveland, but really regard him as the most available candidate the democrats can possibly name, with one voice and universal acclaim they demand to know what state that was carried by Blaine in 1884 can be carried against him in 1888, while, per contra, several states voting for Mr. Cleveland are now more than doubtful for the democracy! They admit there may be a very remote possibility of Mr. Blaine losing California and Nevada, a total of eleven electoral votes, but they insist that, as against Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Blaine could carry Indiana, 15 votes; Connecticut, 6 votes; New Jersey, 9 votes, and Virginia, 12 votes, a total of 42, with good chances of West Virginia, 6 votes additional. They even place Tennessee as among the doubtful democratic states should Mr. Cleveland be the nominee.

They make the point with considerable emphasis that President Cleveland has lost, rather than gained strength in New York, and under no circumstances could he command the support of the laboring classes in the city of New York, without whose votes for the democratic candidate the excelsior state becomes hopelessly republican.

"Blaine is much stronger to-day," remarked one of these dissatisfied parties, "than in 1884, even with his own party. Why? Because there is nothing new to be charged against him. All his scars and leprosies are known to the country, and he is the tattooed man upon whose person no further marks can be made. Revamp the old marital scandals, the Mulligan letters, the Little Rock & Fort Smith railroad bonds, and what not, and everybody will cry 'chestnut' and ring their little bells. We took Cleveland all unknown, and hence the people did not believe the charges circulated against him; but with all these advantages, and the notorieties of Blaine's public and private career, coupled with mugwump dissatisfaction and the Burchard episode, the democracy won only by a plurality which less than 700 votes would have changed."

"Now, then," continued the malcontent, "President Cleveland to hold his own must increase in strength in the doubtful states. That, in my opinion, he has failed to accomplish, while Blaine has lost none of his prestige. It is suggested that Blaine may not be nominated or does not desire the nomination. That is the veriest bosh. Blaine can have the nomination by crooking his finger, and neither Sherman, Allison nor the great unknown has the slightest chance against him, simply because Blaine has the following of his party. I notice that Donn Piatt has been interviewed since his arrival in Washington, in which he states that he is not satisfied that Blaine wants the nomination, and that he did not seek nor desire it in 1884. Piatt is either in his dotage or indulging in satire. Any one who was present at Chicago in June, 1884, when Steve Elkins, Joe Chaffee and the Blaine fuglemen were managing affairs, knows better than that. Why, even George E. Spencer, George C. Gorham and other Conkling stalwarts were there, openly working for Blaine in order to beat Arthur, who had turned the cold shoulder to Conkling, and they were hand in hand with Steve Elkins."

The Mac-o-Cheek statesman and quill-driver also says that President Cleveland will be renominated on his merits, and defines a democrat as a man who votes the democratic ticket, the whole ticket and nothing but the ticket. He also inclines to the opinion that the mugwumps is on the increase, especially in Ohio, which will advance Mr. Cleveland's strength in that state and elsewhere. "In days lang syne I admit that democrats voted the whole ticket, good, bad and indifferent. That is not the case now, for there are lots of democratic as well as republican mugwumps, and Donn Piatt is one of them and I am another. Mugwumpery has ceased to be endemic and become epidemic. I agree with Piatt, however, that President Cleveland will be renominated, unless some extraordinary revulsion occurs within the next nine months, and for that we are hoping and trusting. Blaine will be the republican candidate, whoever may be his adversary, and if it be Cleveland, Blaine's chances to win are the best. That is my opinion now."

A democratic senator who overheard this conversation subsequently remarked to the Herald's correspondent that he disagreed with the democratic mugwump idea. "President Cleveland," said he, "is a much shrewder politician than he is given credit for. I think he has made some mistakes in appointments to office, but that will occur to any president, whoever he may be. The president's idea is evidently to have the people with him—to merit and receive their confidence, and when the politicians realize that he has accomplished thus much, never fear but they will all come into camp. There never was and never will be an administration wholly free from antagonisms within its own party. In certain regards, I think the cabinet could be improved upon, but as a whole it is a good cabinet. President Cleveland and James G. Blaine will be renominated, and the race of 1884 will be run over again, with the state of New York holding the balance of power as before. That is the whole story, except the unknown quantity of the labor vote."

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

REMOVAL OF THE O R & N COMMISSARY.—For some years the supply depot of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company has been in the old brick building which stands just west of the southern end of the Ainsworth dock This building will very soon be vacated and all the stores removed to the second floor of the large wharf just below the foot of Ash street. Carpenters will probably commence work to-day to make the needed alterations to the interior of the proposed new quarters The upper story of that portion of the Ash street wharf has been occupied some time as a general carpenter shop for the company but the contemplated change will render its removal to some other quarters necessary Col Drake who is in charge of the commissary department of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company will have an office fitted up down stairs while the upper story will be used as the general supply depot The object of the removal has no doubt some direct or indirect bearing on the question of terminal facilities The old brick building where the depot has been so long located is one of the landmarks of Portland It was built more than twenty years ago by the Starr Brothers for a whisky distillery but as the enterprise failed from the start to be a profitable one it was abandoned almost before it was fairly commenced For many years after the building stood empty idle and deserted Subsequently it was used as a general store room and later occupied by the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company

USELESS FENCES.—Around some of the city park blocks below B street the fences which have so long guarded the enclosed grounds from bovine and equine intrusion are in a bad state of repair These fences were built a good many years ago—about the time the blocks were improved by grading and setting out shade trees Exposure to the storms of winter and heat of summer while they have sent the trunks and branches of the thrifty trees high and wide into the air have produced a very different effect on the fences Posts have rotted away until a slight push from the hand is enough to prostrate a rod or two and in some cases the fencing has fallen away of its own accord It is understood that these old decayed fences are soon to be entirely removed and the park blocks left open As the cow and horse ordinance is so rigidly enforced and no damage to the trees need be feared from these browsing marauders the fences appear to be a useless incumbrance The removal of the fences from the plaza blocks last year was a big improvement and demonstrates that the park blocks may be safely left open

THOUGHT HE OWNED A WALL.—Last evening Lee Mon Gow was arrested on a warrant issued from Justice Rushwiler's court the charge being defacing a building not his own A short time ago the proprietor of the high toned Hang Fang Law restaurant at the corner of Alder and Second streets was notified to vacate the premises This was done but the former proprietor it seems thought he had the right to remove the several partitions from the building A Chinese workman named Lee Mon Gow began tearing away the partitions and a complaint was sworn out by one Hing Wa The complainant is the agent of Hang Wa of Astoria and represents in this city the firm of Frank Wan Moon

CHANGES IN THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.—Several changes in the fire department have taken place during the past few days Al Thomas who has been driving for Hook and Ladder Company No 1 for some time has resigned Schuyler Camp driver for Hose Company No 2 has been transferred to Hooks to fill the vacancy and William Day extraman for Hose No 2 has been promoted to Camp's place James Haverty hose cart driver for No Two's has also resigned and his place is filled by Antone Richard on extraman for No 3 Pete Manefet has been appointed extraman for hose cart No 2 and John Young extraman for No 3

POLICE COURT.—The following arrests were made last night and the offenders will be examined to-day on the charges Lee Sun for parking swill Charles Nolan charged with larceny from a store Wm Eddy for larceny The latter person was found with three bottles of champagne in his possession which he was endeavoring to sell at a very low figure Eddy when interrogated by the officer could give no very satisfactory explanation as to how he came into possession of the liquor and as the officer was well satisfied that he had obtained the property dishonestly locked him up

STREET RAILWAY FOR EAST PORTLAND.—It is rumored on pretty good authority that the Stark Street Ferry Company or some of its stockholders intend to build a street railway on I street East Portland commencing at the ferry landing and running to the eastern suburbs of the city possibly to Mount Tabor One report is that application will be made to the East Portland council for the right of way at the meeting to-night or two weeks hence Street railways seem to be the order of the day on the east side

CATCHING SEAL OFF SHOALWATER BAY.—For the past few days says the Oysterville Journal a sealing schooner called the Helen Blum has been engaged in sealing off Shoalwater bay She has been off about twenty miles and made quite a catch numbering something like 150 at last account Sealing so far south on the coast is something new

THE CALIFORNIA EXPRESS

FIRST TRAIN OUT OF PORTLAND ON THE FORTY TWO HOUR SCHEDULE TO SAN FRANCISCO

Yesterday afternoon the first regular train run over the Oregon & California road on Sunday left the lower east side depot exactly on time 4 15 It also inaugurated the short schedule of forty two hours between Portland and San Francisco If five years ago it had been announced that a gap of only twenty nine miles lay between the Oregon & California's southern terminus and the California & Oregon's northern terminus and that there were good prospects for a through rail line within five months it would have been the occasion of much rejoicing The people would have hailed it with shouts of gladness over deliverance from isolation Now the connection of these lines will be an incident merely in the history of Oregon though it may prove the most important agency in developing the state When the gap is closed Oregon will be in the Southern Pacific great system and it is the Southern Pacific's policy to fill the country tributary to its lines with population So while the completion of the California road will not create so deep an impression on the public mind as did the driving of the last spike of the Northern Pacific ... may be wider reaching and far ... time will tell

IMMIGRATION FROM CALIFORNIA

OBSERVATIONS OF AN OREGONIAN WHO HAS JUST COME THROUGH THE GOLDEN STATE

Mr George L Wells the well known contractor who returned last week from the East via California gracefully submitted to an interview by a reporter of THE OREGONIAN on the prospects of this state securing some of the immigration which at this time overflows nearly every section of the golden state Mr Wells spent some months in California stopping at all points of interest from San Diego to Yreka. Everywhere he heard of inquiries concerning Oregon answering many himself Except in San Francisco immigrants could learn little of this state and usually they were greeted by persons interested in keeping them in California with the mouldy chestnut that it rained thirteen months in the year

With reference to Southern California Mr Wells said that land suitable for orchards and vineyards is held too high to be within reach of an ordinary settler In the Los Angeles and San Diego districts average land cannot be bought for less than $200 an acre and first rate land is held at $500 Besides the rent of water for irrigation is a very heavy tax on the land If an intending settler applies to a reliable resident not interested in selling ranches he will be informed that he can depend on a full crop one year in five a fair crop two years and a poor crop to a failure two years Then he starts northward Land is as cheap in the neighborhood of Fresno as in any other section but the very poorest is held at $50 an acre while what would be considered a good farm in Oregon cannot be bought for less than $125 to $150 an acre In the Sacramento valley and the little valleys north of it average land under cultivation is valued at $50 an acre The prospects for this season's crops are gloomy If all the rain that can reasonably be expected comes before harvest there will not be at best more than half a crop Should the weather remain dry for another month and this is not unlikely the crop will be nearly a total failure This is the condition of things from Woodland to Red Bluff

As a result of this outlook quite a number of immigrants are now working their way to Oregon Mr Wells being weak from recent illness made the trip by easy stages stopping one day at five different points in Northern California. He observed on every train from fifteen to twenty men in search of land most of them bound for Oregon Few of them take the stage at Montague for Ashland but club together in parties of five or six and hire some farmer's team to take them over the mountains Mr Wells says that no practical farmer coming from the Sacramento valley to the Rogue river country where vegetation never looked better can hesitate about the choice He soon learns that crops never fail in Oregon and that's all he ... in this state Mr Wells is ... that ... immigration into Western Oregon from California for the next two months will be very large.

ROBBERY OF CHINESE

ROAD TAXES COLLECTED FROM THEM UNLAWFULLY AND BY VIOLENCE

At this season of the year the road poll tax becomes due and the assessor appoints special deputies to attend particularly to Chinamen and collect the tax from them It is no known that a special effort is made to collect this tax from other people but the deputies appointed to look after the Chinese watch every train and boat and the ... to is let no Chinaman escape They do not consider it necessary to pay any attention to the provisions of the law in this matter when dealing with the Chinese or else they are entirely ignorant of these provisions It was long the custom to appoint to this office irresponsible parties sometimes drunken loafers who systematically plundered the Chinese and as systematically robbed the county of the money they obtained It is a well known fact that hundreds perhaps thousands of dollars have been collected as poll tax and road tax by means near akin to highway robbery and that the proceeds have never been turned over to the purposes for which it was ostensibly collected

At length the Chinese invoked the protection of the law and established the fact that they were not liable for a poll tax They are however liable as other people for a road poll tax and this should be collected in a proper manner It is claimed that more care is now exercised in the selection of deputies and that they are required to give bonds and that the money collected is properly accounted for However it appears that considerable sums have been collected of late which have not been paid to the assessor One young man was appointed a deputy and furnished with a book of receipts He collected taxes until his receipts were all gone and then it is said took to giving out the stubs in the book as receipts He was detected before he had exhausted his stock of stubs but it is generally understood that the roads will receive but little benefit from the money he collected It seems strange that such fellows are so often chosen for collectors But this is not so strange as that such gross outrages are allowed to be perpetrated upon the ignorant Chinamen Gangs of them are corralled when about going aboard of boats or trains and forced by threats and by unlawful seizure of their belongings to pay a road tax The law requires that all persons liable to this tax shall be given three days notice in which to appear at a certain place and do the required amount of work and on their failing to do so their property can be levied on and the amount of tax collected The collector has no right to lay his hand on the person of any man Chinaman or white man or to take possession of his property to force him to pay a tax as is done every day in the week except through due process of law It is only a day or two since as reported by the press a tax collector named Smith prevented some Chinamen from taking their effects on board a boat and when two of them attempted to take their property they were handcuffed and a watchman on the boat who remonstrated was also seized and the three were marched to the sheriff's office where the watchman was allowed to go with a warning to attend to his own business in future The Chinese were locked up If Mr Smith had interfered with two white men and prevented them from taking their baggage on board the boat he would probably have received the thrashing he deserved and if he had been killed the parties would have been held as blameless as if they had killed a highwayman who had attempted to take their property from them Outrages of this kind have been perpetrated long enough and the decent part of the community are disgusted with such actions The excuse offered by such fellows and their friends is that it is only Chinamen and if the tax can be collected from them by any means it is all right and for the benefit of the roads As far as Mr Smith's collections are concerned THE OREGONIAN has no definite knowledge but it does know that a great deal of money has been improperly collected and as improperly disposed of and to all who know anything about his business it seems strange that a stranger or some irresponsible person is always appointed for the purpose of collecting road tax from Chinese

Situated as it is, away from the malarial district it is entirely free from all miasmatic influences, and is destined to become with the rapidly increasing population of the two cities what Berkeley and Alameda are to San Francisco—a place of beautiful homes

Through the completion of the Morrison street bridge

PARADISE SPRING FARM

Is made a delightful suburb to the city of Portland, and in less than six months passenger trains of the Mount Tabor & East Portland Railway Company will pass this property every half hour thus making it possible for the merchant the mechanic and the laborer to do business in Portland and live in the most delightful of all its suburbs To the observing man we deem it unnecessary to enlarge or even to dwell upon the possibilities of Portland and its suburbs as compared with those of any other city, believing as we do that it is without a parallel in the United States Although the city of Portland has not yet attained the average lifetime of man, it ranks to-day in population as the forty fifth city in the Union is the actual terminus of three transcontinental lines, has more wealth within its boundaries and a greater area of territory at its command than any other city of America.

Portland's position as a trade and travel center is as thoroughly defined on the Pacific coast as that of New York on the Atlantic, and it is safe to say that within ten years it will have a population of over 100 000 Already its residence capacity is taxed, and right here the question arises, Where will these newcomers seek homes Will it be in the stifled precincts of a four story tenement house such as is found in the densely populated cities Will it be on the rugged hills surrounding the city, where land is already held at $8000 a block Or will it be on the

METHOD OF SALE

These houses six in number together with the ... are ... other improvements are to remain in ... the lots where they are at present situated and are included in the price paid for the lots ($200 each), to those who draw the fortunate numbers

In order that all buyers may have an equal chance in the drawing the following plan of award will be adopted The name of each subscriber will be placed on one slip of paper and a number of each lot from 1 to 58 will be placed on another slip the two slips will be placed in separate boxes, and under the supervision of responsible and disinterested citizens will be drawn simultaneously The number drawn will designate the lot belonging to the subscriber whose name accompanies it Under this plan the names as well as the numbers will be placed in the separate boxes promiscuously, thereby removing any possible advantage that one subscriber might have over another

The plats on file in our office as well as a visit to the premises, will show on which lots the houses are located but no one can tell who will receive the winning numbers until they have been drawn blindfolded from the box

Each and every subscriber will receive a warranty deed to his lot, without any extra charge whatever

Remember that there are six elegant, modern design dwellings to be given away with these lots Price $200 each one fourth down and the balance in installments of $15 a month without interest

THE IMMIGRATION OFFICE.

IT WILL BE CLOSED SEPT. 1ST, IF FURTHER PROVISION IS NOT MADE FOR ITS SUPPORT.

Some days ago, it will be remembered, the members of the board of commissioners of the state immigration tendered their resignations to Gov. Pennoyer, with the request that his excellency would appoint a new board. It was the purpose of the commissioners to turn everything—room, furniture, grasses, grains, fruits, minerals, pamphlets, papers and funds—over to the new board, and quietly step down and out.

Most of the members of the board have been acting for the past two years have given both time and attention to the duties without any compensation whatever, and during most of that period, been subjected to much criticism and unjust censure. The commissioners very properly thought that to give their services for nothing, and then be politely abused by some of the papers through the country, was more than their duties to society and their obligations as citizens required. Besides, in some quarters, it was intimated that the members of the board did not wish to retire. Taking into consideration all of these circumstances the commissioners concluded to resign, and thus enable Gov. Pennoyer an opportunity to appoint a new board. This, as is well known, the governor declined to do, and so the alternative was presented the present board of either remaining for the present, or to abandon the whole enterprise.

Should the commissioners resign in a body after Gov. Pennoyer declined to appoint others to fill the vacancies the matter would of necessity simply go by default, for there would be no organization whatever to whose care and control the present effects of the immigration bureau could be turned over. Not wishing to see the present effective organization dissolve and collapse just at this season when the tide of immigration is setting strongly toward the state, and at the time when so much good can be accomplished, the commissioners, after due consultation and consideration of the situation, concluded not to resign just now, and for the present allow affairs to remain unchanged.

About $1000 still remains on hand and with this it is calculated the immigration office can be maintained until about the last of August. Running expenses have been reduced as low as possible, but not so meager as to impair the effective operations of the organization. No further expenditures will be made which are not indispensably necessary, and the purpose of the board is to gradually close up the business and, so far as the members are concerned individually, "shut up shop" on the 1st of next September. Of the 30,000 pamphlets and leaflets printed last year only a few thousand remain on hand. So great and constant has been and still is the demand for information that the large supply threatens to be soon exhausted. No more immigration matter of any kind will be printed during the closing administration of the present commissioners.

As to what will be the future of the immigration bureau, little can now be predicted.

A committee of five, it will be recollected, was appointed a short time ago to make efforts to raise, by subscription, sufficient funds with which to maintain the bureau. This committee, it is understood will make no active effort to collect money by public contribution until after the exhaustion of the funds already on hand. Doubts are expressed that the committee, however active and efficient they may be, if it will be able to raise enough means to continue the good work. It must be admitted that the present outlook is not such as to raise hopes of carrying the bureau beyond the retirement of the present board. Something may be accomplished between now and the last of August, but there appears to be a sort of general impression that the whole matter will go to the wall. In this event it has been suggested that the magnificent array of grasses and grains be carefully boxed up and sent to Omaha, St. Paul or Chicago, or some other great railroad center, and there placed on permanent exhibition. Oregon, it is claimed, could be advertised very widely and effectively in this way.

A RENDEZVOUS FOR HORSE THIEVES.

THE PLACE DISCOVERED WHERE STOCK STOLEN FROM EASTERN OREGON IS HIDDEN.

Baker City Democrat, April 30.

It was known to the Democrat reporter two months ago that active steps were being taken by the authorities of Baker county, assisted by the untiring zeal of Mr. N. H. A. Mason of the Overfelt Cattle Company, who is a terror to the evil-doer, to overhaul and bring before the proper tribunal to answer for their misdeeds, a gang of horse and cattle thieves that have been infesting the Malheur country. The public was given an inkling of operations under way at the time, but we refrained from entering into details least in our zeal to give the news we might interfere with the well laid plans of our officers for their capture. Now that the full particulars are about to become public property, we propose to be the first in making them known.

Last Thursday evening Mr. Andy Newman, deputy sheriff of this county, returned to this city, and in a few minutes after his arrival was met by a Democrat reporter. In answer to the inquiry as to what success had attended his efforts in the pursuit of criminals, the gentleman gave us the following particulars regarding his chase:

He left this city some six weeks since with warrants for the arrest of Tom Harmond and Frank Cotton, alias Lambert, charged with cattle stealing from the ranges of the Malheur. Having satisfied himself that the criminals had made their escape toward the Grand Ronde and Wallowa valleys, he took up the trail for that locality. He passed through these valleys and on down the Grand Ronde river to its confluence with the Snake, half way between Granger and Idaho City, a distance from here of over 200 miles. Here, to his surprise, he found himself in the midst of an organized band of refugees from the law, numbering upwards of twenty-five or thirty men, well armed and equipped, ready to set at defiance the strong arm of the law. The place selected for refuge by this band of outlaws is well adapted for their calling. The little valleys, here and there, are nestled in between high, precipitous and rugged cliffs and mountains, some of them affording abundance of bunch grass for stock. Their outlet is across the Snake into Idaho, and by this passage hundreds of cattle and horses are run off from the upper counties and disposed of to unsuspecting purchasers in the states and territories east of us, while the people hereabouts have long been in a quandary regarding their loss of stock, never suspecting that such a systematic organization of thievery was in existence.

Mr. Newman remained with the gang about two weeks, they not in the least suspecting his motives and he fully assuring them that he too was a refugee from the law as well as themselves. He was taken into their confidence and "put on to their racket" in all its details, but not finding the fellows answering to the warrants in his possession, he returned to Grand Ronde valley where he learned of their being near Pomeroy, W. T., to which place he hastened. Arriving there he found positive trace of the fellows making rapid tracks for the Snake river rendezvous that he had just left. After satisfying himself to a certainty that they had rejoined the band he gave up the chase, it being an impossibility for one man to effect their capture in the face of such odds as would naturally present themselves when once the fugitives had gained their stronghold. He therefore very wisely concluded to return here and lay his plans before his superiors and await further orders.

When we recall the unsavory stories that have been told, of murders committed in this wild region, unfrequented save by those whose lives are devoted to a calling that fosters the kind of courage known to desperadoes, we may expect a startling chapter of developments when the nest is broken up, as it surely will be at no distant date. Mr. N. describes their stock as an aggregation of various brands—many of them vented—among which collection he recognized two as belonging to parties on the Malheur.

THE EAST SIDE.

REPAIRS TO THE BASE LINE ROAD—MISSION SCHOOL ORGANIZED.

The city council will hold a meeting this evening.

An interesting meeting was held in the hall of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon.

Ladies' Foreign Mission Society will meet at the Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon.

Late last night two tramps were "run in." One had a large bunch of keys, which were taken from him.

The wife of W. B. Gilson, who has been very sick for a week with puerperal fever, died yesterday afternoon.

An excellent programme of exercises has been prepared for the M. E. Sunday school concert next Sunday evening.

Young people's meeting will be held to-night at the Methodist church, led by Miss May Ganeau. A full attendance is expected.

The pile driver on N street has the piles driven as far as Third street. The contractors are pushing the work with commendable zeal.

Several Chinese hucksters have been lately arrested and fined for peddling California vegetables on the streets of East Portland without a license.

The Long Beach Association met Saturday night at the office of Dodd & McCoy and perfected an organization, elected officers and made plans for future operations.

The case against Thomas Fallon, charged with maintaining a nuisance in Cole's addition, will be tried next Wednesday. This was made necessary from the fact that there is a case pending against Fallon in the circuit court at this time.

There was a pleasant entertainment at the hall of the W. C. T. U., corner Fifth and J streets, for the benefit of the Band of Hope. There was a large attendance and an interesting programme of exercises was given, which was well carried out and appreciated.

The work of repairing and planking the base line road to Mount Tabor has been commenced. Road Supervisor Christiansen has charge of the work, and a good job will be done. The owners of the Belmont park have a force of men repairing its avenues and putting the adjacent roads in good condition.

The directors of the Sellwood district have adopted plans for the erection of a $3600 schoolhouse. One of the directors was in Portland last Saturday and took the plans home with him in the evening. It is expected that work will be begun in a short time. The project certainly speaks well for the prosperity of the place.

The Sunday-school board of the East Portland M. E. church organized a mission school in Stephens addition yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There were fifty-eight persons present. The following officers were elected: Superintendent, W. H. Burdick; assistant superintendent, J. W. Wilson; lady superintendent, Mrs. Sutherland; secretary, J. A. Hines; treasurer, Mrs. Jennie Hines; librarian, Wm. Owen; assistant librarian, James Poole; chorister, Joseph Floyd; organist, Flora Hubble.

A man named George Eagen, who has been the bartender of the saloon on the southeast corner of Water and F streets, seems to have become unsettled in his mind. Last Saturday he went over the river and drank very heavily. He had with him a bank check book. He would draw a check for $3 or $4, deposit it with the bartender, drink up the amount and then redeem the check. Finally he put his employer's watch in "soak" for liquor. The saloon-keeper who had Eagen employed discharged him, since which his mind has been affected. He made an attempt to get his revolver, expressing a determination to shoot himself, but was prevented.

ADJOURNMENT OF MARSHAL'S SALE.

City Marshal and Delinquent Tax Collector.

STORMS AND FRESHETS.

LOST ON LAKE ERIE.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., May 1.—The schooner Louie O'Neill, of Coos Landing, which left Buffalo Wednesday with a crew of eight men, is believed to have sunk in Lake Erie, off Port Stanley, in the furious gale of Thursday night, with the eight men.

HAILSTORM AT ST. PAUL.

ST. PAUL, May 1.—After a day of summer heat this section was visited this evening by a terrific hailstorm, which did much damage. The hailstones ranged in size from a pea to a grown goose egg, some of the largest weighing four ounces and measuring nine inches around. Glass was broken wherever exposed, that in the tower of the capitol building being riddled, and in some cases plate glass being shattered. A number of small structures, chimneys, etc., were wrecked.

SNOW AT SALT LAKE CITY.

SALT LAKE, May 1.—A heavy snow storm came up this morning and continued in squalls for about twelve hours.

THE MAINE FRESHETS.

ELLSWORTH, Me., May 1.—Every entrance to the city from Bangor is cut off by reason of impassable bridges. The water has not risen any since 10 o'clock this morning, and it is hoped the worst is over. There is a great washout on the railroad at Boggy brook. No trains or mails have passed since Friday morning. Carriage roads are in the worst condition for years.

CHICAGO HODCARRIERS TO STRIKE.

CHICAGO, May 1.—To-morrow about 3000 hod-carriers and laborers will be idle here, having been ordered on a strike by the Hod-carriers Union. The number would have been fully 5000 had not over 100 employers granted the demand for an advance of 3 to 5 cents an hour. Four thousand members of all nationalities attended a meeting to-day, at which this action was ratified.

A DISTINGUISHED SURGEON.

LONDON, May 1.—The death is announced of Athanase Leon Gosselin, the distinguished French surgeon.

COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, April 30.

Overland receipts include 18 cs boots and shoes, 11 cs hats, 33 pkgs dry goods, 34 cs 2 bls c p goods, 8 cads 142 bxs tobacco, 6 bbls des cocoanut, 12 pianos, 36 bdls shovels, 16 bbls candy, 2 cs cigars.

A recent issue of the London Grocers' Gazette contains the following: There is not much doing in salmon, owing mainly to the dearth of supplies. About 30,000 cases of various ships are due at this port, and a further 20,000 cases should be here shortly. The speculation got up in San Francisco has not made the trade here lose their heads; and buyers of 1887 pack who are now so venturesome are likely to have their hands pretty full when the the time comes for carrying their purchases.

The river at this point at noon to day was 10.3 ft above low water mark. It has been at about this stage all month. Morning reports from the upper Columbia and Snake to-day indicate rising waters under the influence of warmer weather. At Riparia the Snake was 9 ft 2 in, a rise of 1 ft 4 in in 24 hours. At Celilo the Columbia was 8 ft 3 in., a rise of 2 in., the rise noted at Riparia not fairly reaching Celilo. For the month the Snake at Riparia has been from 6 ft 3 in. to 9 ft 2 in., being lowest on the 23d and 25th and early in the month marking over 7 ft. At Celilo the Columbia has marked 6 ft 8 in. to 8 ft 6 in., highest on the 16th and lowest on the 7th. The month of April has been one of cold rains, the precipitation here amounting to 5.06 in. Since 1872 the usual fall has been less than 3 inches. In 1876 it was over 5 and in 1880 less than 3. These years brought high water. In 1880 May came in with warm weather and the rivers rose rapidly. Present indications are highly favorable to a high stage of water next month and it is generally looked for.

PATTI'S SELF-DENIAL.

From the Mail and Express.

Adelina Patti is 44 years old, but her voice is only 25 years of age. That is to say, it is still as fresh, suave and facile as if she were only in her 25th year instead of her 45th. How has she preserved the marvelous voice with which heaven blessed her, and through her the thousands who have heard her sing? Is the enduring freshness of this voice due to some quality inherent in it or to some secret in this singer's art of vocalization? To neither. Patti's voice remains youthful, though Patti advances in years, because her whole life is ordered with the one special purpose of preserving as long as possible her voice in all its beauty. Every detail in her daily routine is considered with this object in view. Many social pleasures which other singers freely indulge in she abstains from, though they would afford pleasant relief from the self-imposed monotony of her life, because she realized that it is the duty of one upon whom heaven has bestowed a great talent not to waste that talent. There is really a touch of nobility in Patti's self-denial, in order that she might remain as long as possible an exponent of the art of song.

Once while I was conversing with Patti a letter was handed to her. It proved to be an invitation to dinner. She was longing to accept it, but promptly denied it.

"But," I said, "you do not sing that evening, nor even the next."

"That makes no difference," was her reply. "I am very careful of my voice, and during the eight months of the year in which I sing I avoid all social excitements. In fact during the four months when I am not singing I rest as much possible."

She then went on to say that even during her four months' residence at her castle in Wales she abstained from social excitements, and that her diet all the year round was arranged of articles that were nourishing yet easily digested, as she considered that the voice of a person suffering with indigestion could not remain unimpaired. "I don't know much Latin," she said, "but I know enough to have adopted Vox sana in corpore sano as my motto. I consider physical health essential to the preservation of the voice. Were I an invalid taking the waters, my regime could not be more carefully ordered."

I noticed that she spoke in a key lower even than the ordinary conversational tone, and asked if she did so purposely.

"Indeed I do. The days when I am to sing I do not speak above a whisper, and ordinarily I do not speak louder than I am speaking to you now."

"Do you practice much now?"

"I sing my solfeggios about half an hour a day. When I was learning new parts I did so by singing them over to myself quite softly."

"What place do you consider your home?"

"Children of the theater, like soldiers, have no home. We go hither and thither. I had a home only as a child, and that was in New York."

"Were you fond of music even as a child?"

"Yes; as a child I took piano and singing lessons; they varied with sewing lessons. For mother said a voice was uncertain—it might be lost. So she taught Carlotta and myself how to sew, and made us proficient in other handiwork."

"Who was your first singing teacher?"

"Barili, my stepbrother. It is a mistake to say that Strakosch was my first singing teacher. He came later to New York. He taught me only Rosina in 'Il Barbiere.'"

"Does your fondness for the theater date from your childhood?"

"I was taken to the theater often—indeed whenever my mother sang. I used to get so excited over the performances that I could not sleep. When I thought all my family asleep I got up, lit a lamp in front of the mirror, put on a scarlet coat of my father's and one of my mother's operatic hats, and went through all the gestures I had caught from my mother's performance, humming over the melodies. Sometimes I got through the whole opera and applauded myself, and threw crumpled newspaper at myself for bouquets. Once, unfortunately, I applauded myself so loudly that I woke up Carlotta and got a scolding."

"How old were you when you made your first appearance?"

"I was 7 years old, and the occasion was a concert at Tripler hall. I was so small that I was put on a table near the piano. I sang 'Una Voce' and 'Casta Diva.' I made a success and my parents, who were in want through the dishonesty of an operatic manager, made money. I was really a mere child, 16 years old, when I made my debut in 'Lucia,' at the Academy of Music, on the 24th November, 1859. Ullman had to be urged to allow me to appear. He thought I would not amount to much. The performance was the evening of Thanksgiving day. Mme. Anna Bishop was advertised to appear at the matinee. Underneath it said: 'In the evening, debut of Mlle. Adelina Patti in 'Lucia di Lammermoor,' supported by Brignoli and Amodio.' How proud I was of that advertisement. Next year I sang in Boston, Philadelphia and other large cities of the United States. In 1861 I went to Europe." Mme. Patti also said that Elsa in "Lohengrin" she considered the most exquisite of all operatic heroines, but that she did not dare to sing Wagner's music for fear of injuring her voice.

"Do you sing 'Home, Sweet Home' from sentiment," I asked, "or merely for effect? Pardon the bluntness of the question, but many people say you sing the air merely for effect?"

"I was born in Madrid February 19, 1843. My father was a Sicilian, my mother a Roman, but we came to New York in 1844, and the first language I spoke was English, and, as I said before, my only home was that of my childhood. Hence I sing 'Home, Sweet Home,' for its sentiment."

"What was the first opera you ever heard?"

"I suppose 'Sonnambula.' My mother sang it in Madrid on the 18th of February, 1843."

Y. M. C. A. INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION.

The twenty-seventh international convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of the United States and British provinces will meet in San Francisco May 11-15. This convention has three distinctive features which have led it to become remarkable among all the many religious conventions of the world.

First—It is the only national or international religious gathering under the direction and management of laymen. The leading divines of the land are often heard from its platform, but the committee of control and the management of all the details are in the hands of laymen, a convention of Christian business men who have left the demands and strifes of business for a little time to come up and confer concerning the greatest problem that is before the world to-day, the saving of her young men. The same punctuality, prompt decision, concentration of thought and word, and dispatch which characterizes their business life, is seen and felt in every heart throb of the convention.

Second—It is a gathering of young men or of these peculiarly a valuable men who never grow old. One looking in on this convention is struck with this fact in comparison with most religious gatherings. Those who have come are not a company of men on a holiday excursion, but a set of young business men, who have had to make very careful planning, arranging with partners in business, and a careful consideration of the time and expense in coming; men who have no time or patience to hear long essays on abstruse themes, or doubtful theories, but straightforward, matter-of-fact statements upon the practical questions which we meet in the daily problems of the moral world. They are men of large experience in the handling of these themes, and their words are full of inspiration and power.

Third—The convention is undenominational. They come from all the evangelical denominations, and furnish the best illustration of the answer to the prayer of our Lord, "That they all may be one," that can be found in the world today. With the Episcopalian rock-balasted roadbed, the Presbyterian steel rails, the Baptist water supply, the Methodist fire underneath, and Congregational passengers, all under the immediate direction of him who said, "I am among you as one that serveth," as conductor, a train is made up which insures a safe, rapid and entertaining journey.

It is novel, inspiring and instructive to see this large company of men—picked men all, from out this great nation—forgeting for the time their peculiar ism, and wholly engrossed in the great need of a common salvation to the young men of the land.

For several months the eyes of the Christian young men of the nation have been turned toward the Pacific coast. Those who cannot attend the convention will remember the gathering at their places of prayer, and great good cannot fail to come to the city where held.

No city where the convention has been held for the past twenty years has failed to be stirred by it, and most remarkable results have come in many instances. At Atlanta, Ga., the place of the last convention, such a mighty impetus was given to work for young men that the people poured unsolicited into the lap of the local association $80,000 with which to erect a building for their work, and thousands of young men were led to unite themselves with the churches of the city during the special meetings which followed.

By telegraph we get the information that not less than 250 delegates will attend beside those going from Oregon. COM.

THE MEDICAL COLLEGE ROW.

SALEM, April 30.—The committee which was appointed by the trustees of Willamette university, consisting of R. S. Wallace and W. H. Odell, of Salem, and G. W. Staver, of Portland, to endeavor to settle the differences between discordant factions of the medical college, returned from Portland this morning, having been unable to accomplish their mission. At a coming meeting of the trustees the vacancies created in the faculty by the declination of Drs. Wilson and Mackenzie to serve and the resignation of Dr. Wells, on account of inability to perform the duties of the position of professor of materia medica and therapeutics, will be filled.

JOSEPHI AND COX TO RESIGN.

It is understood that at the regular meeting of the asylum board, Monday, the resignation of Dr. Josephi, as superintendent, and Dr. Cox, as second assistant physician of the asylum, will be tendered and accepted. Dr. Josephi's resignation is to take effect on July 1, and the time at which Dr. Cox's will take effect is yet to be determined.

Commissions for the following officers of the new national guard were to-day issued from the governor's office: Brigadier-General, J. M. Siglin, Coos county; adjutant-general, with rank of colonel, J. C. Hoffman, Multnomah; judge advocate-general, with rank of colonel, J. T. Bowditch, Jackson; inspector-general, with rank of colonel, M. E. Freeman, Multnomah; surgeon-general, with rank of colonel, A. L. Saylor, Morrow; aides-de-camp on the staff of the governor, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, Robert A. Miller, Jackson; J. H. Raley, Umatilla, and Cecil H. Holcomb, Multnomah. The aides-de-camp on the staff of Brig.-Gen. Siglin will have the rank of major. By the new law constituting the national guard the governor is commander-in-chief of all the forces in the state. The appointments date from May 20, when the law goes into effect.

DENTAL EXAMINERS APPOINTED.

The board of dental examiners created by the last legislature, and consisting of four members, were also appointed to-day, as follows: J. R. Cardwell, Multnomah; John Welch, Clackamas; Norris R. Cox, Multnomah; D. Siddell, Wasco. The two first named serve for four and the two last for two years. When the successors to the last named are appointed they will serve for four years.

DR. M'DOWELL CAUGHT.

Dr. Samuel W. McDowell, who escaped from the asylum Thursday night, was captured late last night near McCoy and brought back to the asylum.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT BICKLETON.

GOLDENDALE, April 30.—Bickleton, Klickitat county, was entirely destroyed by fire last night, except a church, blacksmith shop and butcher shop. The loss is about $25,000. The only insurance was $6000, carried by Bickle & Flower.

PASSENGERS VIA YAQUINA.

YAQUINA, April 30.—The steamer Yaquina City arrived from San Francisco at 3 P. M., with a cargo of freight for the Willamette valley and the following passengers: E. Freepen, M. L. Abbott, J. Wonderker, Adam Berg, Oscar Berg, A. R. Chandler, J. Partridge and wife, William Cochrane and wife, J. C. Minor, R. Carncliff, J. Savon, A. L. Strickland, John Lutjen.

LIFE-SAVING AT FORT CANBY.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—Maj. J. F. Blakeny, superintendent of the life-saving service on this coast, has inaugurated a system of saving life at Fort Canby. Two lookouts will be stationed on the point by the lighthouse, and a surf boat will be taken around to McKenzie's head. These special precautions are taken with a view of saving the lives of fishermen.

THE PORTLAND COLLECTORSHIP.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The president has recently been devoting some time to the claims of rival candidates for the position of collector of customs at Portland, Oregon. F. N. Shurtleff, the present collector, has held office two terms, and prior to that was deputy collector. All efforts to secure his removal have heretofore been fruitless. As the Oregon spring elections are approaching, the wisdom of filling this important office with a democrat has been urged upon the president with renewed vigor, and it is expected that an appointment will be made some time next month. The leading candidates for the place are Hyman Abraham and Frank Dodge, and it looks as though Abraham, who is very strongly indorsed, would get the place.

OREGON LAND DECISION.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Acting Secretary Muldrow, of the interior department, has decided the case of George L. Horsman against Joel M. Prasher, as presented by appeal of the latter from the decision of the commissioner of the general land office, holding for cancellation his timber culture entry 1492 of land in section 32, township 3, south of range 30 west, made September 10, 1884, at the La Grande land office in Oregon. Mr. Muldrow directs that a further investigation be had concerning the validity of the entry, either by local land officers or by a special agent of the department, and, in case it shall appear that said entry was illegally made, proceedings should be instituted looking to its cancellation.

Nipped in the Bud.

JACKSONVILLE NOTES.

April 29.

Circuit court in session.

Few improvements being made.

A large amount of corn is being planted.

Work will soon commence on the Siskiyou tunnel.

About $1250 was cleaned up from John Millis's mines, after a fifty days' run.

In the case of state vs. Andrew Hamlin, convicted of rape, motion for a new trial sustained and granted by Judge Webster.

Work on the telephone line between this place and Medford has been commenced and the projectors expect to have it at work in a couple of weeks.

Senator Hamden's colored troupe gave an entertainment here last evening but did not meet with much success. This section is being overrun with one horse shows, and the consequence is they don't fare well.

The ore found in the Timber Gulch Mining Company's tunnel is very rich, and it is reported it will assay about $250 per ton. The Hatch & Rieves strike in the old Davenport is so rich that a door was put on the tunnel in which the ledge is located. They will be developed at once.

Henry Klippel will go to Portland in a few days in the interest of the branch railroad. It is thought old rails can be bought from the Portland & Willamette Valley railroad when that road is converted into a broad gauge road. He will also solicit subscriptions from the Portland merchants.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

BLACK WASH
Or Black Leprosy, is a disease which is considered incurable, but it has yielded to the curative properties of Swift's Specific—now known all over the world as S. S. S. Mrs. Bailey, of West Somerville, Mass., near Boston, was attacked several years ago with this hideous black eruption, and was treated by the best medical talent, who could only say that the disease was a species of and consequently incurable. It is impossible to describe her sufferings. Her body from the crown of her head to the soles of her feet was a mass of decay, masses of flesh rotting off and leaving great cavities. Her fingers festered and three or four nails dropped off at one time. Her limbs contracted by the fearful ulceration, and for several years she did not leave her bed. Her weight was reduced from 125 to 60 lbs. Perhaps some faint idea of her condition can be gleaned from the fact that three pounds of Cosmoline or ointment were used per week in dressing her sores. Finally the physicians acknowledged their defeat by this Black Wolf, and commended the sufferer to her all-wise Creator.
Her husband hearing wonderful reports of the use of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), prevailed on her to try it as a last resort. She began its use under protest, but soon found that her system was being relieved of the poison, as the sores assumed a red and healthy color, as though the blood was becoming pure and active. Mrs. Bailey continued the S. S. S. until last February; every sore was healed; she discarded chair and crutches, and was for the first time in twelve years a well woman. Her husband, Mr. C. A. Bailey, is in business at No. 17¼ Blackstone Street, Boston, and will take pleasure in giving the details of this wonderful cure. Send to us for Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases, mailed free.
